Wildlife

Daytime Workshop: Call to schedule for next year. Fee: $22.00 includes Zoo admission

In our busy lives we often forget to stop to listen to the bird singing or watch a squirrel climb a tree. The Wildlife Interest Project workshop at the Philadelphia Zoo will have the girls building bird feeders, learning about field research, discussing environmental values, and talking to women who chose to work with animals as a profession. After completing the workshop at the zoo, each Girl Scout will still need to complete their Service Project and at least one other Skill Builder activity.

All About Birds

Daytime Workshop: Call to schedule for next year. Fee: $22.00 includes Zoo admission

Birds are amazing animals in both their adaptations and their roles within the environment. Did you know that if there is a problem within the ecosystem that birds will be among the first animals to be affected? The Philadelphia Zoo would like to help the girls earn the All About Birds badge by sharing some of the knowledge and experience through talks and activities such as building bird feeders, bird bio-mechanics, and binocular and field guide use. After completing the workshop at the zoo, each Girl Scout will still need to complete their Service Project and at least one other Skill Builder activity.
